Project Title: Sushi Website

I want this site to have a minimalist, zen-like aesthetic with a dark stone texture, and I want to use soft lantern glows and bamboo sheets to divide sections. I want to use the font "Iosevka Charon Mono" since it is very clean and elegant. Instead of breaking up the site across multiple pages, I envision this site being a single, smooth-scrolling page with site navigation at the top to help users easily jump to desired sections of the page.

Sections:

- 1. Home/introduction: Introduce the basic concept of sushi and set an aesthetic, inviting tone that highlights sushi as a blend of tradition and modern global cuisine. Use a high-quality hero image of a sushi platter
- 2. History: Trace the evolution from Narezushi (fermented fish and rice) to the fast-food style developed in the Edo period, and introduce Hanaya Yohei, who is often credited with inventing the modern Nigirizushi style. Present information on a calligraphy scroll
- 3. Types of sushi and how they're made: Nigirizushi (hand-pressed mounds of rice with toppings), Makizushi (rolled sushi using nori/seaweed), Chirashizushi (scattered sushi in a bowl), Inarizushi (fried tofu pouches filled with rice)
- 4. Ingredients and artistry: Use lots of photography and descriptions to talk about the rice (Shari), toppings (Neta), and the years of training required to master sushi making
- 5. Etiquette and culture: Do's and don'ts for eating sushi, the social impact of sushi, and the rise of "fusion" sushi like the California Roll and its impact on the original tradition
- 6. Sources: Cite the Wikipedia page and all images
